

Abstract of the Invention

A molecular sieve and a molecular sieve catalyst containing a surface heat 5 impregnated with a metal. The molecular sieve is heated in the presence of a metal containing solution at a temperature between 30°C and 400°C then separated from the metal containing solution. The molecular sieve and molecular sieve catalyst is used to make olefin from an oxygenate feedstock.